

HANNING

moving ■■■ ideas

Environmental Policy

Our promise of "moving ideas" is not only directed at customers and us but also expressly includes progress made in environmental protection and in the sustainable development and production of our products.

To protect the environment and ensure a careful management of natural resources, we have defined clear and binding obligations that apply to all areas of our company. We are organized on the basis of legal, governmental and customer-specific requirements as well as the guidelines defined in our own management system in order to fulfill and comply with our environmental commitments.

The objective we have for our products and processes to impact the environment as little as possible, while taking into account customer requests and economic feasibility, takes precedence.

We continuously monitor all processes, energy consumptions, emissions and waste in order to be able to utilize the results as basis for our commitment to greater sustainability and reducing negative environmental impacts.

Within the framework of conformity management, we deliver together with our suppliers specifications-compliant products; that includes the use of materials with the smallest environmental impact possible and the commitment to use only authorized materials and chemicals.

Environmental protection for us is not a topic that involves individuals, but one of teamwork, where every employee is incorporated and encouraged to make a contribution to protecting the environment in their work area.

20.12.2016

Bernhard Sander
Managing Director

Dieter Bräutigam
EM-Representative